College City Design-Build Welcomes New Lead Designer

Bonnie Anderson, ASID, has joined College City Design-Build, Inc. as their lead designer. Anderson is a graduate of the University of Minnesota with industry expertise in residential design, logistics, space planning and project management. She specializes in high-end custom homes in both new construction and remodels. Anderson owns and is the creative director for B. Lavish, LLC. Previously she was an interior designer for Ramsey Engler, LTD and Financial Interiors, Inc. She has been certified by the National Council for Interior Design and is a member of the American Society of Interior Designers. Anderson has spent the last nine months working on the DIY Network television show “BATHtastic!” making over bathrooms and is also an active volunteer mentoring for the University of Minnesota’s interior design program. Anderson enjoys the outdoors, biking, teaching group fitness classes and cooking. She resides in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

College City Design-Build, Inc. is a custom move-up builder and remodeler in the Minneapolis metro area. Their experienced and dedicated staff is featured in national trade publications. The quality of the staff, along with traditions of family ownership, provides an excellent balance of big firm proficiency with small company service.
